The screenshot shows a PDF viewer displaying the article content. The title is 'Increasing the capacity of public health nursing to strengthen the public health infrastructure and to promote and protect the health of communities and populations'. The authors listed are Joan E. Kub, PhD, MA, PHCNS-BC, FAAN, Pamela A. Kulbok, DNSc, RN, PHNA-BC, FAAN, Sarah Miner, RN, PhD, and Jacqueline A. Merrill, PhD, MPH, RN, FAAN, FACMI. The document is from the American Academy of Nursing on Policy. The 'Executive Summary' section begins with: 'The American Academy of Nursing recognizes the need for strengthening the U.S. public health workforce and supports efforts to increase the capacity of public health nursing (PHN) to promote and protect the health of communities and populations. PHN has distinguished itself as a nursing specialty by defining its practice as that of "promoting and protecting the health of populations using knowledge from nursing... a healthier future and better health outcomes. In 2014, the National Advisory Council on Nurse Education and Practice (NACNEP) submitted its 12th Annual Report to Congress, Public health nurses: Key to our nation's health, asking both Congress and the Secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (USDHHS) to enhance supports for PHN education and practice as a means to ensuring a healthier future and better health outcomes for all Americans (NACNEP, n.d.). In 2016, the NACNEP reinforced this position in its 14th Annual Report to Congress. Preparing nurses for new roles'.
